GANESH CHATURTHI CELEBRATION

Eco Friendly Workshop

Ganesh Chaturthi, also known as Vinayaka Chaturthi, is a vibrant and significant Hindu festival celebrated with immense fervor across India. The spirit of Ganesh Chaturthi celebrations for pre-primary can be brought, where young minds can learn about this cultural extravaganza while engaging in fun and educational activities. At eduMETA we believe that every occasion is an opportunity for learning and enjoyment.

This year's celebration revolved around the theme of "Eco-Friendly Ganesh Making," inspiring the children to use sustainable materials for their creations. The little ones, armed with enthusiasm and creativity, took to crafting their own Ganesh idols with eco-friendly materials. They used clay, paper mache, and natural dyes instead of non-biodegradable materials like Plaster of Paris and chemical-based paints, which are harmful to the environment. The event was not just about crafting idols; it was a lesson in creativity and conservation.

The parents of the eduMIANS were equally involved in this unique celebration. Many parents praised the school's initiative to teach their children about environmental responsibility from such a young age. Some even shared their own eco-friendly Ganeshas, fostering a sense of community among the families.
